Eagerly pursuing a career as a junior front-end web developer, I am constantly expanding my technical knowledge in the digital space. I have a computer science degree and experience building functional websites for a range of clients. I like to create visually appealing and intuitive websites, using my passion for filmmaking to add a unique narrative and aesthetic to my projects.

Freelance Web Designer 2018/2019

Post-graduation, I began working on a few website projects for a selection of clients. My journey led me to use the Content management system,, WordPress, recognizing its versatility in meeting varied client demands. As a one-man band, I managed projects from initial design to final, functional websites.

Key projects include:

- Avenueskateboards.co.uk: An online storefront for a Manchester-based skateboard store.
- All7.co.uk: A digital portfolio for a film production company.
- Yourboiler.co: A web presence for a Portsmouth-based boiler company.

This experience honed my skills in adapting designs to different industries, ensuring each website uniquely represented the client's brand and business needs.
